Dr. J. W. Taylor Takes Helm As Commerce College Leader

The College of Commerce at Brigham Youg University has named Weldon J. Taylor its new dean.

Dean Taylor, a faculty member since 1947, has received several citations for his work in the field of marketing.

He will relieve Dr. William F. Edwards of his duties as dean of the college, as Dr. Edwards has served in the dual capacity of president of the University in charge of finance and business administration since the unification of the Church School System in 1952.

Also since that time, Dr. Edwards has been assisted by Herald R. Clark, the former dean, who has handled many of the administrative details.

The College of Commerce includes the departments of Accounting, Business Education and Office Management, Economics, Finance and Banking, Industrial Management, and Marketing.

Dean Taylor was awarded the highest citation for scholarship given by New York University, the Founders Day Certificate of Achievement.

Within the past three years Dean Taylor has been honored by the New York Council of Market Research with six citations for teaching merit. This recognition is awarded professors whose students win top national honors in market research.

The new dean received his Bachelor of Science degree from BYU in 1934, his Master's degree from Harvard in 1937, and his Ph.D. from New York University.

After serving as a specialist in business research for several corporations, including Greater Utah Valley, Inc., he is currently preparing a textbook for use in college marketing classes.

Parole Method Request Included In 4 Additions To Felon Complaint List

Daily Universe Exclusive

Prisoners at the Utah State Prison added four suggestions to a 43 item list last week for the improvement of conditions which set off a night-long riot Feb. 8.

One addition to the list was felt by the prisoners to be "perhaps the most important suggestion of all" and dealt with the enlarging of the parole system of the state.

They said the system should be integrated with community organizations, civic groups, fraternal and service clubs, schools and churches to educate the public in accepting the parolee back into society, rather than regard him as an outcast.

The prisoners pointed out that "eventually 95 per cent of all inmates in prisons today will be released to go back out into society."

Why not improve the system enough to 'help us to help ourselves' be a credit to the state of Utah instead of an increasing disgrace?" the suggestions said.

The list, which was given to three Brigham Young University students who teach in the prison's education system, outlined the prisoners' complaints and elaborated on the suggestions they made.

The three students, Marvin Hogensen, Clair Kilts and Joe Gates, were all held hostage several hours the night of Feb. 8 when prisoners rioted and took control of the prison in an expensive melee.

Several thousands of dollars worth of property was destroyed in the prison by the rioters.

A "trades training" program, establishment of a disciplinary or adjustment committee and establishment of a "foolproof" method of handling inmate mail were the other three suggestions listed by the inmate grievance committee.

The committee suggested that "apprenticeship credit for time worked at a trade while here would be a great step forward" in a trades training program to help prisoners.

The adjustment committee would be organized, the committee said, to grant a "fair hearing" to an inmate for infractions of the rules.

"At the present time, and in the past, inmates have been sent to 'lock-up' or 'put on the grade' at the discretion of individual guards, and in most cases for an unknown length of time," the grievance stated.

"Several inmates have lost (and complained about it to no avail) stamps, magazines, letters, papers, etc., from the mail room," the committee said in calling for a "thorough investigation by a United States postal inspector."

In citing the reasons for most of prisoners' grievances, the committee pointed out the need for trained penologists and more opportunities for rehabilitation of prisoners.

Choir Director Given Grant By Foundation

Newell B. Weight, associate professor of music at Brigham Young University, has been awarded a Danforth Teachers grant, one of 57 in the United States.

Weight is director of the nationally famous BYU A Capella Choir.

The scholarship includes one year of study with all tuition, books and fees to a university of the receiver's choice paid, plus $5000. Weight plans to attend the University of Southern California for a year having been given a leave of absence from BYU and then stay another year on Sabbatical leave to obtain his doctor's degree.

Weight and his wife have also been invited to the Danforth conference at a resort town near Detroit, Mich., in August for a week's orientation with all expenses paid.

A college may submit one application for every 3000 students and Weight's name was one of three submitted by BYU. Of 500 entries, 150 were selected by the Foundation and personal interviews were made. The final 57 then were chosen to receive grants.

Pres. Richards To Speak At Tuesday's Devotional

President Stephen L. Richards of the first presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will speak at devotional assembly Tuesday.

He has been in the Council of the Twelve and first counselor to President David O. McKay. In 1917 he was sustained an apostle, an office he held until his call to the first presidency.

A Rotating Program . . .

Dr. E. L. Christensen Named To Department Chairmanship

Dr. Edward L. Christensen has been appointed chairman of Brigham Young University's department of business education and office management to replace Lars Crandall, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

The move, to be made effective June 1, is in accordance with BYU policy of rotating chairmanships of departments.

Professor Crandall, an assistant professor of secretartal training, will take a leave of absence to continue graduate study after June 1.

Dr. Christensen, associate professor of business education and office management, came to BYU in 1953 from Weber Junior College. He obtained his Bachelor of Science, Masters and Doctorate degrees from University of Utah in 1938, 1939 and 1953.

Dr. Christensen is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa honorary professional educators fraternity, and the Phi Kappa Phi, a scholastic fraternity. He wrote the teaching creed which the Phi Delta Kappa spotlighted during its 50th anniversary celebrations.

Professor Crandall was the department chairman for two years. He received his education at BYU, receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in 1944 and his masters in 1945.

Upon graduation he became a teacher and assistant to the treasurer until 1950 when he was appointed assistant professor of accounting. He formerly was secretary to the division superintendent of Utah Power and Light Company and filled a mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints to California in 1940-42.

BYU Coed Elected IK Queen, Chosen At Region V Convention

Klea Haynie, Brigham Young University coed from Los Angeles, was crowned queen of Region V of the Intercollegiate Knights during their annual convention held here Saturday.

Miss Haynie won over the queens representing the other attending schools, University of Utah, Utah State, and Westminster College. The queens were judged on poise, personality and beauty. She will represent Region V at the National Convention in April when a national queen will be crowned.

The other coeds seeking the crown were Sue Cowan, University of Utah, Billie Soffe, Westminster College, Salt Lake City; and Claudia Hirschi, USAC.

The BYU IKs played host to the other delegates in the Smith Family Living Center. In the morning, a large general meeting was held. After they adjourned for lunch the delegates formed into committees to discuss policy of the National IK Organization. Later, they came together to elect officers for the coming year. Cordell Lufkin of BYU was elected to Region V Viceroy. He succeeds Paul J. Peterson, also of BYU. Dave Stoddard of Utah State was elected Region V Expansion Officer.

Philanthropist Wills $2500 To University

Utah's "Mr. Reclamation" the late William R. Wallace gave $2,500 to Brigham Young University to be used for land reclamation in the Utah Valley area.

The money presented to Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, BYU president, is to be used by a student to "Determine the best plans for saving the fertility of the landsoil within the basin of the Great Salt Lake."

The will of the veteran reclamationist added, "By such a small study it may be that a great overall plan can and will be developed."

Wallace died Jan. 29 at the age of 91.

Also mentioned in the will was the University of Utah, which will receive the yearly income from 100 shares of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. stock. Wallace requested in a codicil to the will that the funds preferably be used to help a student obtain a technical education.

Vocalists Needed To Participate In MIA Conference

Students who plan to be in Utah on June 14-15th will be eligible to sing at the June conference of the Mutual Improvement Association of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

'Y Day' Gets Consideration May Be Annual Holiday

by Karen Larsen
Daily Universe Writer

A bill providing for the legalization of "Y Day" is being revised by the special events committee for consideration by the Senate.

The bill will provide that "Y Day be made an annual school activities day for the furtherance of Brigham Young University tradition."

Formerly Y Day has been slated as a campus clean-up day. Teachers have suspended classes on the assumption that students would help clean up, but only half the studentbody has usually reported for duty, according to John Perry, special events committee chairman.

Last year Y Day was billed as an activities day because the students cost more in damages than it would cost to hire clean up help, stated Perry.

The bill states in print that "Y Day should include every year; the painting of the "Y" spectator and participation field events, a free lunch, and an evening dance."

The original bill also stated that all classes should be suspended for the day and that the studentbody president should appoint committee members for the day. These legislations are being revised into recommendations.

The bill provides for one administrator to be appointed as advisor for Y Day, and for the event to be scheduled on the first Wednesday in May.

BYU Coed Named Publicity Chairman For Local Drive

Utah County American Red Cross has recently announced that Marilyn Arnold, Brigham Young University senior, will direct radio publicity for a fund raising campaign to take place during March.

Publicity for the fund raising campaign will include radio interviews, jingles, spot announcements and records from the National Red Cross. All three Provo radio stations will carry the publicity.

Soft As Sunshine . . .

Spring Fashion Free In Line, Gay In Color

by Margaret Hunter
Daily Universe Society Writer

THE COMING OF spring brings with it a new look in fashion. The greatest change is softness in line, color, as well as fabric.

Blousing is a main factor in bringing about this softness of line. Many of the suits have bloused or loose unfitted jackets.

Most suit tops are shortened to or above the waistline. The long jacket of a suit now ends about two inches below the waist.

MANY JACKETS are full but squared off to achieve this new line. A bloused, waist-length, draw-string jacket is another way to give the looser feeling.

Skirts, although predominately slim, are given ease through full length pleating or soft light pleats at the waistline.

Capes are important news for spring. They also give a softer, looser silhouette. Although many are slim and full length, most are short and come to the hipline. Large full-collared capes are very fashionable.

THE MOST exemplary dress of this style is the shirtwaist dress. It will show great popularity because of its ease of line as well as its being a well-known classic.

It can be made simply or have variations to suit the new styles. Blousing of the top is common. Ruffles down the front band give femininity for spring. Large collars also add a difference.

Stripes and soft glen plaids are predominant in the shirtwaists, but even dressy black silk dresses are made in this style.

COLOR BEING THE next important spring fashion change, also brings in a new softness.

Hyacinth blue and mauve pink are the two most important colors for the spring wardrobe. A touch of navy to either of these will add a classical note.

Other soft spring colors are pussy-willow grey, beige combined with grey, and beige and carmel.

Fabric plays an impressive role this season. Silk is a leader. Silk tweeds and shantungs are highly popular. Silk blends, such as with cotton, are also used.

TINY STRIPES, soft plaids and large floating prints are highlights in fabric. Block and screen prints are most popular.

Food Expert Says Cook Meat Slow

COLUMBIA, Mo., (INS) — A Missouri University nutritionist warns that cooking meat too long and too high a temperature causes it to shrink.

According to Flora Carl, fewer servings with higher cost per serving will result. She pointed out that a 10-pound cut of beef round lost two to three portions, or servings, when it was pot-roasted for an hour past the well done stage.

Miss Carl advises "keep temperatures low when cooking meat and cook only until done."

"What's it like to be

A MANUFACTURING ENGINEER AT IBM?"

Four years ago, Yale senior Lee Baker asked himself this question. Today, as a Product Control Engineer in IBM Manufacturing Engineering, Lee reviews his experience and gives some pointers that may be helpful to you in taking the first, most important step in your engineering career.

"It's tough," Lee sympathizes, "for a college senior to feel confident about choosing a job. For four years he's been trained to be critical and deliberate about making decisions. Now, faced with the biggest decision of all, he has only a few months in which to attend job interviews, separate the facts from the propaganda, and select a company—not to mention passing exams and graduating at the same time."

Lee, with a B.S. in Industrial Administration, came to IBM in 1953. Starting as a Technical Engineer in Production Control, he was immediately assigned to the General Manufacturing Education program—a

Designing a paperwork system

10-month course with rotating assignments in all phases of the work—manufacturing, purchasing, production. In addition to four weeks of formal classroom study, he also spent two in the Boston Sales Office, calling on accounts with the IBM salesmen.

Lee's career was temporarily interrupted by a two-year hitch with the Air Force in Korea. Back at IBM in 1955, he has since been promoted to Production Control Engineer. His present job is to design paperwork systems to insure a smooth flow of work through the plant where the famous IBM electronic computers are manufactured. "It takes creative engineering ability to design these systems," says Lee, "and it takes administrative ability to 'sell' a system to higher management and make it stick."

How to select an employer

To the college senior faced with a job decision, Lee has this to say: "Pick your employer by this simple test: 'Is the company expanding fast enough to provide adequate scope for your talents and ambitions? Is it interested in your long-range management development? Will it treat

"Selling" the system

you as an individual and match your abilities with the most challenging assignments?'"

For his part, Lee feels IBM has met this test. Since 1953, he has seen new plants open, dozens of new products evolve, hundreds of new management positions created. Greater authority, responsibility and reward have come his way. And he knows they will continue, for IBM sales have been doubling on the average every five years since 1930. He likes the "small-team" engineering system that assures ready recognition of individual merit. And he appreciates the fact that IBM hired him despite his impending service hitch.

Recognition of individual merit

What's "life" like at IBM?

At IBM, Poughkeepsie, Lee lives a "full life." He belongs to a local sports car group, drives an Austin Healy. He skis at Bromley. He is a member of the IBM Footlighters and a local drama workshop. At present, he shares an apartment with two other engineers and a "medium-fi" set, but plans to marry "the girl next door" (in hometown Hamburg, Conn.), in the very near future. In this connection, Lee advises seniors to pay special attention to company benefits. "They may seem like a yawning matter when you're single, but they mean a lot when you assume responsibilities. IBM's are the best I know."

Skyline Race Tightens Up

by Mark Murphy

POISELESS Brigham Young's Skyline title balloon has sprung a leak and three clubs are still entangled in a second-place brawl which might blast the slumping Cats right out of the picture.

Montana poured salt in the Cougars' wounds after their terrific lacing at the hands of Utah Thursday night. The tough Grizzlies taught the Brighams a big lesson Saturday in whipping the potential champs 71-63. BYU broke one of basketball's cardinal rules in failing to stall out a comfortable lead with four minutes remaining.

BY WINNING the Silvertips cemented their unaccustomed, lofty position of second place.

From out of the dark of a previously disappointing season has come another definite threat to the BYU hoop supremacy. That five is Denver, and the Pioneers are making pre-season guessers look good by making a shambles of their opposition in the second half of conference play.

LADY LUCK joined the Pioneer aggregation, boosting them to two one-point squeakers over Colorado A&M and Wyoming. Denver edged A&M 62-61 Friday and took an overtime from Wyoming 64-63 Saturday.

Utah's red-hot Redskins retained their hold on a share of second place by deflating BYU 83-66 and edging Utah State in a wild one 92-90.

WHILE UTAH was walloping BYU Thursday, Montana bombed Utah State 78-67.

Skyline play comes to a hectic finish this week, and the Cats seem to have the upper hand playing both of their games at home against New Mexico and Denver.

LITTLE SPORT By Rouson

Jerry's Jargon

by Jerry Cunningham

The easiest thing in the world for a fan to do is to tell a coach how to run his team AFTER the game is over.

Arm chair coaches all over the campus are chirping "should have stalled," "ball control would've won it," and "A deep freeze was in order," now that the Montana-BYU affair is history.

They think that because the Cougars had a commanding seven point lead in the waning minutes of the game that Stan Watts should have played "keep away" with the Grizzlies.

Our air chair experts contend that the averages are all in favor of the team which has the lead and stalls it out, since the opposition has to press hard to get the ballwhichresults in fouls. Then too, when the opposition is pressing hard they often leave unguarded men under the bucket.

And since Montana had a franchise on the boards and every time the Cougars shot and missed (which was nearly every time) they lost the ball—all the more reason for pulling the freeze.

These fans point to a number of games when a timely BYU stall late in the game blew it wide open in favor of the Cougars.

Coach Watts has been right on a number of late-game strategy moves. But maybe this time the personable hoop man called it wrong.

Anyway, the Brighams must whip Denver this week to win it. Nobody expects New Mexico to give the Cats much trouble on Friday night.

Denver, counted out of the race a couple of weeks ago, would pull into a tie for the bunting, should they whip Utah State Friday and BYU Saturday.

The Pioneers were picked to win the conference by many experts. They'll be coming to Provo Saturday to prove these experts right.
